

What We Do

Promote

awareness of victims' and survivors' issues

Engage

and advocate on behalf of victims and survivors

Review

services that victims and survivors access

Research

issues related to victims and survivors

Advise

government and other relevant bodies on all matters affecting victims and survivors

Consult

and discuss with victims, survivors and other stakeholders

We consult with the Victims and Survivors Forum on issues such as:
Dealing with the past Services for victims Transgenerational impact of the Troubles

The Commission is required, through legislation, to convene a forum to represent the broad experience of victims and survivors of the Northern Ireland conflict.
